

THE ARTHUR AND ROCHELLE BELFER NATIONAL CONFERENCE FOR EDUCATORS

June 28 – 30, 2009

“ The information we received as educators was extremely helpful, and the guest speakers were out-standing. The conference was the best one I have ever attended. I came away inspired.”

—Participant from New York

The Education Division of the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum is pleased to announce the 2009 Arthur and Rochelle Belfer National Conference for Educators. The conference is funded by a grant from the Belfer Foundation.

Middle and high school educators with five or less years' experience teaching about the Holocaust are invited to apply to attend this conference. (Educators with five or more years' experience teaching about the Holocaust may apply to the Museum Teacher Fellowship Program; an online application is available at the URL listed below.)

In Belfer Conference sessions designed specifically for middle and high school teachers, Museum educators and scholars share rationales, strategies, and approaches for presenting the complex subject of the Holocaust to students.

Participants hear survivor testimony and have extensive time to view the Museum's Permanent Exhibition, Remember the Children: Daniel's Story, and other special exhibitions and to use the interactive computers in the Wexner Learning Center. Seminar sessions emphasize planning and implementing units of study for Holocaust education in middle and high schools. Teachers who complete the program receive a set of educational materials and a voucher worth $100 to purchase Holocaust-related resources in the Museum Shop.

To apply, please complete the online application at ushmm.org/education/foreducators/ and fax a letter of recommendation from your supervisor to Nicole Hanna at 202.314.7888. Applications are due no later than June 5, 2009.

While there is no charge for the conference, participants are responsible for their own transportation and accommodations. A limited number of scholarships are available.
