

Holocaust Days of Remembrance

April 11–18, 2010

This year marks the 65th anniversary of the end of World War II, and we will pay tribute to the U.S. soldiers who helped defeat Nazi Germany and liberate Holocaust survivors from years of suffering. Their stories of freedom remind us that individuals have the power to make a difference. What we do—or choose not to do—matters.

Remembrance not only obligates us to memorialize those who were killed during the Holocaust, but it also reminds us of the fragility of democracy and the need for citizens to be vigilant in the protection of democratic ideals. We remember because we recognize the importance of preserving freedom, promoting human dignity, and confronting hate whenever and wherever it occurs.

STORIES OF FREEDOM

what you do matters

Inmates waving a homemade American flag greet 7th Army troops upon their arrival at the Allach concentration camp, a subcamp of Dachau, April 30, 1945.
National Archives and Records Administration, College Park, MD.

UNITED STATES
HOLOCAUST
MEMORIAL
MUSEUM ushmm.org

This poster has been made possible by support from the May Family Endowment.