

United States Holocaust Memorial Museum
Office of Survivor Affairs Partner Guidelines

The United States Holocaust Memorial Museum sponsors programming with Holocaust Survivors to provide schools, civic groups, military bases, and other organizations and institutions nationwide the opportunity to hear Holocaust Survivors share their experiences. In order to ensure that the programs are most effective and beneficial for participants and are respectful to the Survivors, the Museum kindly requests that _____ (“You” or “Your”) agrees to the following:

- You will limit participation in the program to faculty and students of your community.
- You will refrain from and request that participants refrain from making audio-visual recordings of the program.
- You will not distribute copies of the program without the Museum’s prior written permission except for educational uses. Please note that the Museum’s programming may not be shared for fundraising, political, or lobbying purposes.
- You understand and agree that the Museum may record this program (including the voice and images of Your community’s participants) and that the Museum may use the recording for any and all Museum purposes in the future. You agree that you will obtain all necessary permissions from Your community’s participants to allow the Museum to record and use the program as previously stated. To the extent permitted by law, You agree to release, indemnify, and hold the Museum harmless from any claims or damages that arise from and/or relate to the Museum’s recording of Your community’s participants during the program and/or use of such recording.
- You understand that the Museum makes no warranties about the status of copyright or other restrictions (e.g., rights held by third parties or the rights of publicity or privacy) related to the content shared during the program. You understand and agree that it is Your sole obligation to determine and abide by copyright or other restrictions when accessing or using any content from the program, including receiving any necessary permissions. To the extent permitted by law, You agree to release, indemnify, and hold the Museum harmless from any claims or damages that arise from and/or relate to your use of any content shared during the program.
- You agree that the signatory below has authority to make these commitments on behalf of You.
